PRUNE POOL DRIVE NEARS GOAL, FINAL SPURT UNDER WAY

Although Santa Clara county is leading the state prune pool drive, there is still a great deal to do before the campaign is successful, according to state leaders in the movement. But conditions have taken a decided turn for the better in the past 24 hours and it is expected that with renewed activity, the final spurt will be victorious. Up to last night over 72 per cent of the needed 85 per cent had been signed up. Hugh Hersman, head of the drive, freely predicted that the drive would go over the top in Santa Clara county at least.

San Jose merchants are redoubling their efforts to get the remaining necessary 13 per cent, or 50,000 tons. They have already gone into the field with grower solicitors after receiving instructions from the San Jose Chamber of Commerce. All growers, whether they have been contacted or not, will be visited again and all possible means urged to induce them to come into the pool.

During the past 24 hours 6,693 tons have been signed up, which is the first time the daily quota has been surpassed. This has happened because of a distinct change of grower attitude towards the need for everyone signing up if the plan is to become operative. Growers generally are coming to realize that positive action must be taken in order to avoid the disaster which is becoming more and more threatening as the harvest season draws closer.

Other districts have followed the lead of the San Jose merchants and have offered their services in the drive. The state Chamber of Commerce and the California farm bureau federation have also gone strongly behind the movement with the full strength of their organizations.

The financing of the growers under the California Prune Pool contract was explained in a special statement sent out by Hugh Hersman, in the hopes of clearing up any misunderstandings or hesitations on the part of the growers. He took a typical crop of 90 tons to explain the financial arrangement. The one-third free tonnage feature of the plan provides that the grower will sell 30 tons of such a crop directly to the packer for cash on delivery. That leaves 60 tons to be pooled under control of the United.

The first offering feature of the United contract provides for the immediate sale of one-third of this pooled tonnage to the Association and the commercial packers for cash at a price set by the United. That would leave 40 tons of the 90-ton crop under control of the industry organization, a total of 50 tons having been disposed of for cash. All this money will be available to the grower within a reasonable time after delivery—without the United having borrowed a cent from anyone.

It can be expected, continues Mr. Hersman's statement, that the packers and the Association will avail themselves of the first offering because of the fact that approximately 60 per cent of the prune tonnage of the state is normally sold and moves out of California within a comparatively short

THE GREAT ECLIPSE

Civic Group Protests Bus, Tel. Service

The Chamber of Commerce, at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night went on record officially protesting against the inadequate bus service. Claiming that the Peerless company is not sending enough busses along Hamilton and Johnson avenues and as a result many potential buyers find it inconvenient to shop in Campbell, the Chamber of Commerce is starting a movement to demand that the bus company fulfill the promise it made when the street car service was discontinued. Unless action is taken, it was pointed out, many people around Hamilton avenue will make their purchases out of Campbell. An inquiry will be made to find out if the railroad commission can take steps to force the bus company to keep their promise.

Many items of business were brought up before the meeting, including a discussion of the five-cent telephone toll. It was claimed that many customers in the Campbell Trading Area felt it a hardship to be forced to pay a toll charge every time they ordered merchandise from local merchants. If the toll charge was eliminated, however, the service rate would be increased. Sentiment was divided on the matter, and it was resolved to get information from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in regard to the possible addition of trunk lines, the cost of the service and the elimination of toll charges.

Mr. Wilson, directing the northern Santa Clara valley prune pool campaign, spoke at the request of the local Chamber of Commerce. He told of the progress of the drive. He presented a picture of the local sign-up and gave figures showing that less than half of the growers in Campbell had as yet signed up, though over half the necessary tonnage has been secured. Though the sign-up is still far behind schedule, Mr. Wilson was optimistic in regard to the final success of the drive, though a bit fearful that there is not sufficient time remaining. He also stated that the district has been thoroughly covered and asked whether it would be satisfactory to allow San Jose merchants to assist in signing up this district. The Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution enthusiastically offering the full support of Campbell to help make the pool a success, and promising to do anything within their power to sign up hesitant growers. They placed themselves at the service of the central campaign committee for the balance of the drive.

San Jose merchants were welcomed into the field and assured their representatives that no hard feelings would exist, and that the fullest cooperation would be forthcoming. A committee to aid in the drive was approved and the following members were appointed by H. M. Shadle, president: Carl Field, Harry C. Smith and Roy Archibald.

E. K. Clendenning told of his efforts to get the local growers to join the pool. He said there was

AINSLEY'S START CANNING TODAY

Campbell's leading industry reopens today, when Ainsley's Packing company starts production. They expect to hire approximately a hundred and fifty workers during the season. The cannery will be in production until about the first of September, working on peaches and pears. The tonnage to be canned this year will be considerably below the normal season's pack, according to F. V. Perrott, general manager of the plant. The California Cannery has not as yet decided to open for peaches.

CHICKEN THIEVES PLEAD GUILTY

Milton Lillie and Joseph Chavalia, both of Santa Cruz, who had been arrested last June on a charge of stealing chickens from Shelley's chicken ranch, pleaded guilty and applied for probation before Judge Grandin Miller in the justice court, San Jose, late last week.

Lillie and Chavalia were arrested by Officers Evans, Coupland and Covey, and have been held in the county jail for the past several months. Their application for probation comes up for hearing before County Probation Officer Max Watson a week from tomorrow.

LOS GATOS JOINS LOCAL KIWANIS IN GATHERING TODAY

The local Kiwanis club were guests here today of the Los Gatos organization as the latter took charge of the luncheon. D. Miller was chairman of the meeting.

General Morton, U. S. A. retired, was the speaker and talked on: "Citizenship." He told of the duty of all citizens to register and to vote. But, he explained, their duty did not stop there. They should, as good citizens, study the propositions they are to vote upon, and make some attempt to familiarize themselves with the records of the various candidates. By doing this they would then be able to vote intelligently, honestly and wisely.

Ralph Hyde gave a short report on the sights and happenings at the Olympiad now being held in Los Angeles.

At the regular meeting of the club next Tuesday, D. T. Jenkins will speak on "The Cost of Crime." Dr. W. I. Merrill will be chairman.

Rinconada Club To Meet August 27

The annual membership meeting of the Rinconada Country Club will be held August 27, according to J. W. Crider, president of the club, who has just sent out the announcements.

The meeting will be held at 4 o'clock on that day at the club-

COMMERCE GROUP TO GIVE DANCE

A dance will be held Aug. 20, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, it was decided at the meeting of that body Tuesday night. After a discussion of the last dance, and of the advisability of making these dances a regular event, it was decided to see how badly the town wanted the dances. A committee will be named to take charge of arrangements and tickets.

CHECK WRITER IS FREED BY POLICE

U. O. Begley of Burbank was arrested last Tuesday by Officer Harry Evans on a charge of writing fictitious checks, but was later released on his own recognizance by Judge Blaine of Campbell. Begley was accused of writing checks amounting to $56 and having them passed on local merchants.

On further investigation Evans learned that it was Begley's brother, Lyle, who had written the checks. A warrant has been sworn out for his arrest, and the police expect an arrest within a short time.

ONE WEEK MORE

There is just one week left in which to decide between victory and defeat, between profit and loss. On Aug. 11 we will know whether the Santa Clara valley has supported the Prune Pool or whether it is committing suicide.

Practically everything that has been said in favor of the Prune Pool has been said and there is little use in repeating it all now. Every one realizes the importance and value of the sign-up. In fact, we haven't heard one single argument by anyone, opposing the Pool.

Yet the sign-up is far behind schedule. Why? It is hard to understand the attitude of the growers who are in favor of the plan and still hesitate. They do not realize that they are practically killing the plan they seem to favor. They must join the ranks of the Prune Pool and it is up to every person in Campbell to see that at least the Campbell growers sign.

If the Prune Pool fails, not only will the growers and packers suffer, but every merchant, business and professional man in the town will find business at a standstill. It isn't a question of helping the other fellow, but of saving yourself. It isn't just a matter of better prices for the prune industry, but of the future of Campbell itself. It would be far better for the merchants of this town to close their doors part of this week and go out and aid in the sign-up than to have the Pool fail and have their doors closed for lack of business. It is an axiom that the prosperity of the town depends upon the prosperity of the farmer. It is fairly certain that there will be no prosperity for the farmer unless he can get a fair price for his products—and in the case of the prune growers the only way to get that fair price, under existing conditions, is to join the pool. Thus it can easily be seen that the best and only policy for the merchant is to see that the growers sign and that they sign up immediately. Your own prosperity is involved so there need be no urging, no pointing to "duty" and no editorials in large type flaming a "THE PRUNE POOL MUST SUCCEED" headline. It is up to you and you can get out and save yourself, or you can let things ride and watch the depression grow.

READ THROUGH YOUR TROUBLES

During a depression—we are sorry to bring this word up again, but you know how it is—probably the most important thing a person can do for his own sake is to get his mind off his troubles, and get it off as inexpensively as possible. There is—and here we become dogmatic—no better way in the world than reading. Though it is a poor excuse to offer culture and education because it is cheap, still that remains one of the best reasons for adopting it.

Without going "highbrow" it is quite true that there are other worlds than this one—fascinating, glamorous, exciting and interesting worlds that reside between the covers of books. There are thousands of worlds resting on shelves in our own library. Worlds that will give us a broad outlook, high stimulation and a great deal of enjoyment—just for the taking. Browse through the shelves, pick out a book and take it home. Start reading and soon the lowered profits, the decreased earnings and the questionable future will recede into the background of tomorrow. And tonight you are living happily in a land of your own choice. There is no need to mention the improvements the reading will bring you, nor the opportunity to know more and thus earn more. Here we are merely offering reading as an entertainment at least as enjoyable as dancing, worrying, playing cards or complaining. The library is there and for your sake, certainly not ours, use it and there will soon be one less member suffering from "depressionitis."

We believe this is such a good idea that beginning with this issue we will run suggestions of interesting and amusing books found in our local library. Or if anyone finds one they particularly enjoyed, send in the name and we will add it to our published lists of good books to read.

If it is O. K. for Uncle Sam to sell printing, why not extend a good thing and insist that he add to his line and thus serve a much larger number of post office patrons? Why not add a grocer's apron to the printer's apron Uncle Sam now wears? Why not sell breakfast foods, evaporated milk, butter, shoes, drugs, dry goods, clothing etc., over the post office counter?—Madeira, Ohio, News.

Frank R. Kent (Dem.) in Baltimore Sun: "There is general recognition that if the things Mr. Garner favored had gone through at the session just ended the national financial solvency would have been hopelessly scuttled and the nation sunk in a financial quagmire from which it would be well nigh impossible to emerge."

The Democrats are keeping it under their hats as a campaign project, but they have an unemployment plan which they hope will work out to give about 100,000 jobs to deserving jobless Democrats.

BOOKS

The Three Musketeers, by Alexandre Dumas.

Of all possible books with which to start this department, none is so fitting as this. None would so pleasantly or so completely take one's mind off one's troubles or so quickly convey the reader to a land of heroic romance where sword-play is fast and life dangerous.

There is no need to urge children to read this book—they have long ago taken this book to their hearts and dream of Porthos, Athos, Aramis and D'Artagnan and their daring feats of valor. But few adults remember the thrill they once received and still fewer go back to this book.

If you do, you'll find excitement in a world you thought you left a long time ago. You'll find yourself avidly following the story as it flows its speedy way from cover to cover. You'll find a new vigor as you hear the Three Musketeers shout their "One for all and all for one." (Which incidentally isn't a bad slogan for right now.) Dumas knew how to write for all ages and for all times and the things he wrote are just as exciting now as the day they were written. In fact, not long ago I read a magazine story of Chicago gangsters that copied "The Three Musketeers" word for word, merely changing the swords to guns, and the place to Chicago, and the story went on in the same way. But the romance was, of course, missing.

But read it for yourself and you will find, for a few hours, surcease from worries and an enjoyable evening.

The following is a list of some of the books recently received at the Campbell branch of the Santa Clara County Free library, as given to the Press by Mrs. Lillian Voge, librarian:

Warwick Deeping's "Old Wine and New," McFee's "Harbourmaster," Sinclair Lewis' "Arrow-smith," The Memoirs of Marshall Foch, Follett's "Magic Portholes," Dumas' "Three Musketeers," Duguid's "Green Hell," Benson's biography of Charlotte Bronte, Dennis' "Is Capitalism Doomed," Williams' "Honeyflow," Widdemer's "In the Shadows of the Skyscrapers," Sherwood Anderson's "Perhaps Women," Gordon Graig's biography of his mother, "Ellen Terry and Her Secret Self," Galsworthy's play, "The Roof," Rafael Sabatini's "Black Swan," Lord Dunsany's "The Travel Tales of Mr. Joseph Jorken's," Rinehardt's "Red Lamp."

Pole Sitter Now Sitting On Salinas Pole With Partner

New poles to conquer echoed in the mind of William Osborne who gained fame as Campbell's first pole-sitter. So, with the recognition he received here, the Fox theaters offered him a chance to further enhance his reputation by sitting on a pole in Salinas. But sitting on a pole is dreary business it seems, and Osborne took company aloft with him in what is probably the nation's first double pole sitting. Proving that the fair sex will take no back pole, a young lady is braving the sun and the cold nights with Osborne. They are getting fed and paid and are covered by insurance. It is a pole-sitter's paradise. But what do pole sitters talk about, sitting on poles?

Before Osborne left here, a fund was raised by various merchants in appreciation for the increased attendance his sitting did for the town. A total of $7.50 was collected and turned over to Osborne before he left, according to H. M. Shadle, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Native Daughter Greet 'Sam'

United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, returning home from Washington, received a royal welcome at the Ferry Building in San Francisco. Among the first to greet him was Mrs. Evelyn I. Carlson, past grand president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, shown here with "Senator Sam."

Widespread Deer Epidemic Rumor Is Found Untrue

San Francisco, Aug 4—From sections throughout the state there have, in the past few days, been sent out reports that deer were dying in unusually large numbers in many of the favorite hunting grounds. Some dispatches say the deaths were due from a disease common in some cattle countries. Especially in the Livermore area was the number of dead deer said to be large.

The state fish and game commission through its research department, anxious to stamp out any epizootic among this favorite game animal, has sent word to all sections from which reports emanated, to have specimens of the carcass of any dead deer rushed to the G. W. Hooper Foundation, Second and Parnassus avenues, San Francisco, that experts there might make a diagnosis and determine from what the deer died, that proper steps might be taken to combat the disease. So far not a single specimen has been received.

Sportsmen as well as state game wardens who have investigated the reports say they have not found any unusual number of deaths among deer, and most reports indicate that deer throughout the state are in better condition this season than for many years. Favorable weather conditions have been ascribed to this desirable condition.

With the awarding of these prizes, Campbell's Buying Week came to a successful close. The majority of merchants were delighted with the results of the week and it is probable that it will become a regular event. With even more time to publicize it, the entire Santa Clara valley could be told of the benefits of buying in Campbell.

Under the auspices of The Campbell School of Health, Lenore Campbell, M. D., spoke at the Community hall Monday evening. Introducing her subject, "The Weight to Health," she made the striking statement that one fifth of the American people are overweight. She pointed out that it is impossible to look, to do, to feel your best, or to live your longest if you are overweight after middle-age. These were given as reasons why we should reduce if overweight. We were also told when and how it should be accomplished.

The lecture was well attended and seemed to be highly appreciated. The "school of health" will continue to meet every Monday evening for several weeks.

Getting taxes down to present price trends demands not only the co-operation of every taxpayer, but wisdom in selecting our legislative representatives. We all know that real estate, representing a quarter of the state's income, pays three-quarters of the taxes. The expense of the penal institutions is painful. Schools are economizing. C. C. Cottrell, whom we submit for your support and vote for Assemblyman, Thirty-first district, sees the need for a thorough understanding of the tax situation and a valiant fight in the people's interest. He declares that taxes must be equalized. But more essential, he says, is that the taxpayers receive $1 in service for every $1 in taxes. We know you can count on him to fight for economies and against unneeded functions and overlapping services.

Mrs. Frank R. Anderson and children, Marilyn and David, Mrs. Frank Boehme and daughter, Miss Gertrude, and Carl Johnson of Palo Alto spent the week-end in Santa Cruz. Mrs. Boehme and Gertrude remained for a two weeks' vacation, while the rest of the party returned Sunday evening.

Mrs. David Ribble entertained the former members of the Cherokee Campfire group, of which she was guardian, at a buffet supper last week. Those present were Annette Merrill, Helen Stray, Helen Lennox, Ruth Townsend, Elsie Merrill, Lois Rice, Miriam Blaine, Mary Maxon, Clara Rice, and Evelyn Voge.

Mrs. Horace Lea and son Warren left early Wednesday morning for Los Angeles where they will take in the Olympic games. They expect to remain for the rest of the week.

S. N. Hedegard and Frank Abernathy were in Salinas Tuesday evening, giving talks on the prune situation and lining up signers for the Prune Pool.

The Los Gatos members of the Kiwanis club will meet with the Campbell club at their luncheon this noon. The visiting members will have charge of the program.

Mrs. Ira Abbott and two daughters, and Mrs. Guy Farley are spending a few days vacation with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Forward at their cottage at Paradise Park.

Miss Vesta Anderson of San Jose, graduate of the Campbell Union High school, announced her engagement to William Cooper of San Jose, recently.

Members of the groups of the Congregational guild inspected the plant of the Temple laundry in San Jose Tuesday afternoon.

Al Bulmore and James Burns were deer hunting near Loma Prieta Monday. They returned with no deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Voss of Santa Cruz were visiting Mrs. Voss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry White of the Busy Bee, Sunday.

Ralph Hyde and son Homer and Otis Hyde left Sunday for Los Angeles where they will attend the Olympic games this week.

Lulu, Clinton and Jack Murdock returned Monday from Georgetown where they had been visiting relatives for a week.

David Farley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Farley, was visiting his uncle, Edward Kennedy, in Gilroy last week.

John Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Young, was visiting in Santa Cruz Sunday.

Leonard Smith and George Whipple are deer hunting in Monterey county this week.

A regular meeting of the Ada Rebekah lodge was held Tuesday evening at the IOOF hall. Lois Rice, newly installed noble grand, presided over the session.

A short business meeting was held, after which Walter Smily gave a very interesting travel talk on New Zealand. Dr. Charles Breuer also gave a short talk. Mrs. Emma Main read a short selection.

A party is being planned to be held sometime in September. The Challenge Butter company will hold a demonstration and 45 minutes will be spent showing pictures. The committee urges all members Cards were enjoyed following the meeting. Julius Bachman held high score. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge, which was composed of all the officers of the lodge.

The committee in charge of the program and social hour for the next meeting includes Phoebe Payne, chairman, and Elfrieda Anderson, Jessie Silberbauer and Winnie Grizzle, assistants.

Although the Campbell baseball team, managed by Antone Ferro, is not in the running for the championship of the SCSA affiliation, they believe that they have a chance in the coming series, as they handed the strong Garden City Glass team a severe wallop in the game here Sunday. The score was 12-2.

Buzolich, pitcher for Campbell, was given credit for the victory, having struck out nine men. A cheer-raising double-play was made from Buzolich to Bonham to Boland, and three-base hits were made by Chadwell, and Cuffaro, the catcher.

State Food Head Outlines Plans To Market Excess Food Supplies To Needy

By Dudley Moulton
State Food Administrator

We have before us a set of conditions which are unprecedented in the history of relief work. On the one hand unemployment with thousands of people who are in actual need of sustenance, a condition which touches the depth of our human sympathy and challenges our ingenuity to cope with; on the other hand great surpluses of food stuffs in the possession of growers, packers and other trade units, with further surpluses coming into production. These products too, are all around us.

The cure seems obvious, to get these products to those who are in need. Yet when we examine the economic phases of this problem, the solution is not so simple. Agriculture must have its profit making possibilities restored or there can be no return to prosperous conditions for other industries.

Practically all of our commercial agricultural crops are at present, when saleable, being marketed at a price below the cost of production and are so obtainable from the merchants in the open market. The goods thus available are, for the most part, being sold at a loss. New goods actually cannot be packed or manufactured at a cost price as low as the figure at which the goods already available can be bought. This is particularly true of canned goods.

In many instances the grower is not securing the cost of production, and the cost of distribution remains out of proportion to the prevailing price levels received by the producer. Economic pressure is driving down the sales price of commodities to a point where many of these unnecessary profits are being squeezed out, as well as the profits of growers.

It is our desire to be of service to the unemployed and the needy but we must not further crucify the farmer by asking him to sell his products at a loss or to give them away to charity. He should receive the cost of production, or at least salvage costs.

A large proportion of California's agricultural products in normal times are marketed outside of the state boundaries, for example; rice, barley, fresh, dried and canned fruits and many vegetables. Unsold goods must accumulate when these outside markets are curtailed. The stoppage of trade has brought with it the inevitable unemployment and distress.

Our objective is to conserve at least a portion of these unharvested and unsold goods and place them with the needy who have lost their power of purchasing.

Various plans have been suggested, among them, the use of the unemployed in harvesting and preserving food commodities and the issuing of labor cards or credits to be used for food supplies. Such local activities cannot be participated in directly by the State Food Administration, but we wish to give all possible encouragement to such efforts, which tend to place responsibility at the point of need and also to enable each locality to do its full share towards solving its own problems.

There must naturally be a very great degree of decentralization of the actual work of relief, so we have urged local units to go as far as possible in securing and distributing supplies in their own communities.

Well organized groups of unemployed have accomplished much without money, in harvesting crops on a share basis, some of these products are then offered for exchange for other commodities which are needed. Men thus retain their self respect by working for what they get.

In order to get at an orderly analysis of the whole matter and place in effect a safe plan of operating, I have set up an organization which in a short time will, we believe, secure a coordination between surplus and need with special reference to the relief situation.

With the basic promise that no unit in business or industry has a right to make money from the need and distress of those who are in want, I expect all groups to give complete cooperation and aid in the plan we have adopted for the present emergency.

It will be well to maintain, as far as possible, the orderly flow of business through its normal channels—for we must bear in mind that with business harried as it now is, any major disturbance in normal processes will tend to even greater uncertainty and would thereby create further unemployment.

The Food Administration Council is composed of men high in the service of producing and marketing organizations. Included in this Council are various commodity committees, small groups of growers, processors and distributors, men who know their commodity, and so can obtain information on unsold goods, where they may be located, the grades or quality and at what price they may be obtained.

In addition to this I have selected a small group of men to act as an Advisory Board, men of large experience and with wide knowledge in this kind of work.

There is being set up in each county, an Advisory Council consisting of one member of the Board of Supervisors, the Agricultural Commissioner and a few others who are especially interested in welfare work.

These units working together with our central state headquarters, will locate sources of supplies, volume and availability.

This information will be given to the State Welfare Commission and the various welfare agencies throughout the state, and thereafter a direct contact will be made between the source of supply and the need.

The relief agencies are rendering a splendid service, probably the most important piece of work to which men and women can give their attention and it is our desire to aid them in every way possible.

The State Food Administration can succeed only through the devoted cooperation of the citizens of every community and particularly through the services of representatives of the various commodities needed in the relief work.

In conclusion, recent reports made to me by both commercial and cooperative marketing agencies as well as the information available to all of us from the market and financial pages, indicate a much more hopeful situation, pointing to a gradual but constant improvement in our commodity markets. Nevertheless, we have a serious situation to meet this winter and it would be a social and time after harvest.

PRUNE POOL DRIVE NEARING FINISH

The 4 0tons still unsold by the United will be stored in available warehouse space, in the same manner that other pooled fruit will be stored. Under customary procedure a loan amounting to approximately 50 per cent of the stored fruit's value can be readily obtained upon properly warehoused fruit.

This would mean in effect that perhaps another 15 tons of the 90-ton crop could be paid for in the form of an advance, leaving only 25 tons upon which there would be no immediate return.

In percentage of total value, therefore, the grower in question would receive within a short time after delivery a cash return on 65 tons out of his 90-ton crop, or about 70 per cent of its value.

The remaining 30 per cent would be paid for as rapidly as the pooled fruit is merchandised in an orderly manner through existing marketing channels. Certainly, there can be no question that with this plan in operation the grower may confidently expect to receive more cash on delivery for his crop, even though he must await a final settlement on the part of it, than he would receive for all his crop if the plan is not put into effect.

A Business Men's Prune Industry Emergency committee was organized recently with Robert Benson, San Jose automobile dealer, Albert Buhot of the Merchants' Association, and William Baylor, as officers of the organization.

Mr. Benson appointed a committee of two leading bankers, Frank Mitchell and Paul Rudolph, who immediately called a gathering of bankers to mobilize the financial forces behind the drive.

The personnel of the present Board of Directors of the Pool and the United is well known to all prune growers. The committee is confident that the industry as a whole and our future as individual growers is far safer in their hands than it is under the present system of destructive competition and haphazard marketing methods. Certainly it is not necessary to assure the prune growers of the state that every effort will be exerted to handle the prune tonnage of California at the minimum of cost.

Only one week remains of the drive and in that time the prune growers of the state of California must decide whether or not they intend to cooperate with each other. After Aug. 10 there can be no change; either the prune pool succeeds, or it fails, and every effort is being made to see that it succeeds.

Hedegard Makes Last Request For Full Pool Sign-Up

By S. N. Hedegard

Last night while attending a meeting of the prune growers at Napa, Mr. Henry Brown who for over thirty-five years has been connected with the Napa Bank and now manager of the American Bank at Napa, said to the prune growers: "This is, in my opinion, the best plan ever worked out for the protection and stabilization of the Prune industry," and he further said, "that anyone who didn't sign the Marketing Agreement would be looked on with disfavor by his bank, and he strongly urges them to sign the contract and get out and work for the success of the plan because in his opinion the failure of the plan would mean complete disaster to the prune industry."

Some of our Prune Growers are still holding out waiting for the last date to sign; others hoping to be on their vacations, hoping that they may stay out and remain an independent grower.

There is going to be no one to hold the umbrella over him and he will be alone. Not only as a neighbor, but alone looking east and west for a possible prune buyer, who is going to buy the outside growers prunes. Yes, if he sells them way below the market perhaps some packer will make an offer, and who gets the prunes, the United Prune Pool because they have an option to take them over at cost to the packer.

Lay all your grievances and petty jealousies aside and join hands with the thousands of progressive growers in this state who have spent a lot of time and money to save the prune industry from complete collapse and who realize that their success and your success depends on stabilizing the prune industry under an 85 per cent control.

EXPERIENCE AND GOD

Sunday morning, at the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. C. E. Irons, the pastor, took for his topic "The Testimony of Human Experience," the text of the sermon being Acts 17:28, "For in him we live and move and have our being." The following are a few brief declarations made in the address:

If we are to effect a renewal of spiritual life and power in this modern world it can only be done by a fresh and vital personal contact with God. The present is a period when strong emphasis is being put on direct experience. Would we study geography, we travel. The teacher takes his class in botany and geology out into the field. The empirical method of the laboratory is the ideal method of approach to truth. Science is no longer a series of guesses, but an organized system of knowledge based upon facts. So with facts of history. We no longer care to listen to mere assertions. What we want are the facts.

This testimony of experience is the proper way of approach to religion. Jesus Christ used this method of meeting the issues of life 1900 years ago. To one of his questioners he said: "Come and see. You will find out by following, by living, by doing."

We cannot, of course, deal with the "burning heart." On the road to Emmaus, one of Christ's companions said, "Did not our heart burn within us while we journeyed?" This was a direct contact with the Divine. No laboratory method can ever explain such an experience. One can only say, "I know, I have seen, I have felt," and who will dare to contradict? If we expect to find out why man is religious, we must take into account what happens in the high tide of his own experience with his inner self.

We risk life itself to ascend into the stratosphere ten miles above the earth, in order to get first-hand accounts of temperature and pressure at those unusual altitudes, and to make other experiments. Why should we not take some pains to find out what happens to a man's inner being on those frontier regions where the finite and infinite join?

We have been passing through a period of financial depression. Everybody has felt it. We have been passing through a much longer period of depression in reference to spiritual values in life. It takes great courage in these days for a man to profess faith in the reality of his own soul. It is time for us to "snap out" of this drift.

There are many types of approach to God. No one can claim to have the only way. Any way that brings a man into direct personal contact with the Infinite is a good way.

The ministry of beauty opens the door for many who otherwise would never find the way. Had it not been for the flowers, the stars, the rainbow, the sunsets they never would have known. Music and poetry and art and songs have helped some who would have missed the way had it not been for their light.

Some have found God in the path of their every day's duty. What an opportunity for those in the home, in the shop, in the store, in the market to find God and show him forth to the world. Not all the saints are found in the cloisters. They that have rough hands often let the light shine into the lives of others.

The discovery of truth often proves to be the direct way to God. You are searching—you do not find, when, suddenly something from out in the beyond seems to answer back to you. It looks like a double search. You, looking for something—something looking for you. It is never a one-sided affair. God is the truth. It must not be my guess, or my faith, or my insight, but something that answers back with an inevitable must be so.

Love is a direct pathway to God. Every sensitive spirit has found it so. An instrument has been invented by which the mariner can see the sun, even when hidden by clouds, or fog, or snow. It is an all-weather sextant for seeing the sun's rays even when they cannot be actually seen. Love is an "all-weather" sextant for feeling the presence of God. No matter what the difficulty. No matter how deep the grief. No matter how great the sorrow, how many times the love of God has shown straight from his great tender heart and we find him.

What we want is a religion that takes us back to what it was in its of heroic faith. The faith that once stirred our hearts and we really knew that God was very near. The moment a person discovers the buoyancy of water, that moment he becomes a swimmer. It is just so in finding the nearness of God. God is not far away. Just throw yourself, by faith, into the arms of the Infinite. He will bear you up. Others have done so, why may not you?

How may we do this? By an act first intention. Christ said, "Except ye become as little children, ye cannot enter in." We need the real faith of the little child. The walls that separate the child from this world are very thin, and it is perfectly natural for it to believe. Ours are grown over by habits that have come to us and are thicker. The real cure is to get back the faith that we have lost because of our indifference and carelessness.

Bible Prophecy

Told In Sunday

Night Lecture Here

A representative audience gathered at the Community hall Sunday evening and heard an interesting lecture on the history and destiny of the world. Present world conditions and their ultimate outcome were studied in the light of divine prophecy. The speaker, J. L. Neil, based his faith in the certainty of the events that prophecy reveals as yet to come, upon the fact that it has all been foretold, and up to the present time, has been fulfilled in its order.

The subject for this evening is "This Amazing Era, Foretold 2,500 Years Ago." The evangelists promise to give from the Bible the meaning of our remarkable age of invention and achievement. Ancient prophets, they say, saw in vision nearly 3,000 years ago such modern wonders as the giant dirigible Akron.

Sunday, Aug. 7, the evangelists will present the subject, "The Second Coming of Christ; Why and How will He Come." Jesus Christ, they say, is to be the receiver of this bankrupt world, and the only cure for its ills. Lecture at 8:00 p. m. Screen pictures on life of Christ and song service at 7:30 p. m. There will be special instrumental and vocal music.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

The Epworth League of the Campbell M. E. church has planned a new series of meetings on the subject of "The Sermon on the Mount." Irene Clay has charge of them and also will lead the first of the group of meetings in the Sunday service which begins at 6:30. Everyone is invited.

Next Tuesday, Aug. 9, there is to be an Epworth League "Institute Echo Rally" at Los Gatos municipal park. From 5 o'clock to 6:30 there shall be swimming and organized recreation. At 7:15 is the picnic lunch which everyone is to bring. From 8 to 10 o'clock, the Alliance business and echoes from the various Institutes is conducted around the camp fire.

The Leaguers in the near future will give a short play in the Sunday evening church service.

BELOW appear the names of the professional men and Santa Clara county official leaders who have, by their endorsement and support, made possible this department of the Campbell Press . . . Voluntarily they have identified themselves with the pleasurable task of building the community around the church, which is recognized as the pivot point of our social, economic and political structure.

to Dudley Moulton, state food administrator, who will direct distribution of excess California agricultural products to relief agencies throughout the country.

In his letter of acceptance Tubbs praised the plan which he declared can "materially alleviate distress in the United States and also be a financial aid to the California farmer.

"Due to limited markets our farmers will probably not be able to sell all of their products this year," Tubbs states, "and it is a shame to allow people in this nation to go hungry when food is going to waste.

"It is a splendid idea to distribute our excess products to agencies at reasonable prices so the hungry may be relieved and our farmers may receive at least something for their labor.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

Every ex-soldier who hobbled to glory under a 70-pound pack knows that there's only one way to lighten the load; that's to take something out of it!

You may ease an aching back, temporarily, by rearranging the pack—but you're still carrying 70 pounds!

And that, in many respects, aptly illustrates the California taxation problem, both as it effects the farmer and the general taxpayer. Equitable distribution of the tax burden is just and necessary. But the sure, permanent road to tax reduction is cost reduction—elimination of part of the load.

The agricultural legislative committee of California, seeking tax relief for thousands of California farmers who are battling to hold their own—and their farms—during a period of economic stress and crippled markets, urges that California councilmen, supervisors, legislators and all other tax-spending officers to go to the root of the problem and cut off all unnecessary government.

As five steps toward economy in government, fundamental steps toward economy in government, fundamental steps which can save millions of dollars for overburdened farm taxpayers and general taxpayers, the agricultural legislative committee recommends:

1. That all non-essential functions of government, which were allowed to grow up in the days of "easy money," be abolished at once.

2. That special attention be paid to the elimination of all overlapping functions of government, as between or within federal, state and local government agencies and their subdivisions. California cities and counties duplicate efforts in many instances; California state and federal agencies duplicate their efforts. The result is a doubled and quadrupled tax burden. Every public official should recognize that the days of duplication and free-spending are over—and farm taxpayers should serve as his vigilance committee to see that he acts promptly.

3. That departments which have lost much of their original importance, due to changing conditions, but which must be maintained, either be merged with other departments or reorganized to permit the greatest possible reduction in their expenditures.

4. That every effort be made to eliminate unnecessary expenditures by public officials and employees—including "junketing trips," use of public automobiles for pleasure jaunts and unjustified traveling of any nature.

5. That all proposals for further expansion of government regulation of business, industry and agriculture be subjected to the acid test of absolute necessity. And particularly that no new functions of government be undertaken unless they unquestionably meet this test.

Such a program, if carried out with even moderate success, allowing for many failures due to political opposition and other factors beyond the farmer's control, would, it is safe to predict, result in large and satisfying reductions in the tax bill.

The specific eliminations, in each locality, in each county and in the state, must be dictated by specific conditions.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Matteson of Campbell have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Arthur Pierson of Hollywood. Miss Matteson was with the Duffy players for four years, and has recently been heard over the NBC network.

The taxpayer must decide, as the soldier decided when he went into action, what can best be eliminated from the pack. And California farmers must have an active part in making the decision—a part commensurate with their share of the load.

Local Girl In Surprise Marriage To Stanford Man

In a surprise wedding last July, Alice Virginia Lenox was married to Albert Frost, in Santa Cruz. The first intimation that friends had of the secret wedding was by the announcements sent out by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Lenox of Campbell.

The bride attended school in Campbell and graduated from Los Gatos High school. She later attended San Jose State College and took post graduate work at Miss Head's in Berkeley.

The groom is a senior at Stanford University. He was formerly a resident of New York and while in the East attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston. The couple will reside with the bride's parents until Mr. Frost graduates from Stanford.

Re-Elect Judge Brown

Judge F. B. Brown

JUDGE BROWN needs no introduction to the people of Santa Clara County. His many years of public service have endeared him to the voters of this valley. Twelve years ago the people put him on the bench of the Superior Court with a majority of six thousand votes, and he has not disappointed them. Before that he was for fourteen years Justice of the Peace of San Jose Township. He has ever been the friend of the plain people and their needs have been his consideration. He has been a most just Judge. He deserves re-election at the hands of the citizens of Santa Clara County. His clean record of work faithfully performed deserves this recognition.

Judge Brown ought to be kept where he is and the indications are that he will be.

practically no opposition to the pool but that many growers just kept putting off signing. According to him, there was nothing that could be done in the local field for a few days and that no additional help would be needed until the last days of the drive. Though he felt that the situation was discouraging, Mr. Clendenning felt that there is a fighting chance for the pool to succeed.

Other business taken up at the meeting included a discussion of a proposal by the California State fair to enter a woman in the statewide contest to select a girl to represent California at the World's fair in Chicago. No action was taken on this.

After a discussion, a motion was passed requesting the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce to request the board of supervisors to put Campbell's name on the highway signs leading into the city. It was pointed out that anyone driving over the surrounding roads wouldn't even know that there was a town of Campbell. It was felt certain that the supervisors would have this situation remedied. The high hedges on the local grammar school grounds have been the cause of a number of accidents at the intersection of Campbell avenue and Winchester road, it was pointed out. A suggestion to cut the hedges down so as to give a clear view in both directions was referred to the highway committee.

The meeting proved a success, save for the small attendance that proved to contain a bare quorum.

FRANK T. LANNIN

Farmer, Businessman

I stand for clean, efficient government under which the farmer, workingman, and the business man, all may have a chance to survive and progress without "strangulation" laws, when an honest effort is expended; a government wherein the rich and the poor receive the same treatment from the courts and the prosecutors on the basis of Justice, rather than "personal pull" and political intrigue. This kind of government is possible if the legislators are honest with themselves and their constituents.

The immediate halting of the ever increasing extravagance in governmental costs brought about by the thousands of new bills passed by each succeeding legislature, and reducing them to a per capita cost in keeping with the ability of the people to pay.
